Three Young Men Jailed For Investigation After Car Strikes Tree During Wild Chase

Trio Escaped On Foot But Later Seized

Three men who wrecked their car while attempting to escape a game warden were being held in Monroe county jail for investigation yesterday.

The three fled on foot after their car smashed into a tree in East Stroudsburg about 1:45 a. m. Friday.

Two of the men, reportedly AWOL from Fort Dix, N. J., were arrested that afternoon.

A third, described as George McIntyre, Bushkill, owner of the car, was reported arrested by Philadelphia police over the weekend while he was visiting at the home of a sister there.

Both Stroudsburg and Milford State police have entered the case. Investigation into activities of the three still is going on, police said.

The first two arrested were listed as William Houston Jones, 18, of 1224 Seventh Ave., Nashville, Tenn.; and Floyd E. Pugh, 21, who gave his address as 823 Sarah St., Stroudsburg.

The three first came to attention of authorities Thursday night. Deputy Game Commissioner Elwood Walter, Shawnee, had been notified that men were hunting deer illegally on the Michaels farm near Shawnee.

Walter went to the farm to investigate. The men jumped into their car and sped away, with the deputy game commissioner pursuing.

The chase which followed extended from Shawnee to Minisink Hills, past the Empire Box Co. there, up Franklin Hill and onto a secondary road which leads to Smith St. in East Stroudsburg. Within 100 yards of the Smith St. intersection the car ran off the road onto a soft shoulder. The driver apparently lost control and the light two-door coupe smashed into a tree.

The three occupants scrambled from the car and began running. Walter also jumped out of his vehicle, shouting to the fleeing men to stop. The three disappeared into the darkness.

Walter called East Stroudsburg police about 1:50 a. m. Police checked the registration of the wrecked auto. The card showed the owner as Amy Valterschamp, Bushkill.

Further investigation disclosed that Mrs. Valterschamp had sold the car previously to her grandson, George McIntyre, and that McIntyre evidently had failed to have the registration changed.

East Stroudsburg Officers Donald Quick and Louis G. Caramella investigated the contents of the auto, including firearms and miscellaneous equipment, then telephoned garagemen to tow it away.

Milford State police indicated the three men would be questioned in connection with four unsolved burglaries in Pike county, and a like number in Monroe county.

Police of both counties questioned McIntyre at the county jail yesterday afternoon in the presence of deputy sheriffs and game commission authorities.

Justice of the Peace Marshall H. Neyhart, East Stroudsburg, said yesterday that no charges had yet been specified against the three, to his knowledge.

Arraignment is expected to take place today.

Garbo Doesn't Wish To Speak

London, (AP)—Greta Garbo and society photographer Cecil Beaton flew off to Paris yesterday the one-time film star still doggedly using the alias "Miss Harriet Brown."

Garbo has been visiting Beaton at his Wiltshire home for the past six weeks. But Beaton won't confirm reports of a romance. In fur boots, blue rubber raincoat and wearing large dark green glasses, Garbo brushed off reporters with "Please, I don't wish to speak to anyone."

18-Inch Snowfall Blankets Kane District; Much Of Nation Has Sub-Freezing Weather

(By the Associated Press)
A mass of icy air froze all but a fringe of the nation yesterday and punished several eastern states with heavy snow storms.

By late last night snow had been falling in some sections of Pennsylvania for more than 24 hours. The continuing fall added to the 18-inch blanket in the western part of the State.

Three Die In Hotel Fire

Chicago, (AP)—Fire swept a south side residential hotel in 22-degree temperature early yesterday killing three persons, injuring nine and leaving many homeless.

The spectacular blaze forced five residents to plunge from top floor windows of the four-story Norwood hotel at 6400 Normal Ave. All were injured. The bodies of two men and a woman were found in their rooms in the south wing which was most severely damaged.

One of the heroes of the fire was a British evangelist, Rev. Leonard Ravenhill, 44, of Oldham, England, who rescued a 74-year-old fellow mission worker Thomas Haile of Lisburn, Ireland. He dropped the semi-conscious Haile from a fourth floor window, then jumped himself.

Mr. Ravenhill, from a hospital bed where he was being treated for possible leg fracture, hand burns and shock, gave this account:

"I thought of my friend, Tom, in the next room, and went over and awakened him.

"We went to the window near the fire escape, but flames were shooting up around it. There was a great deal of screaming and shouting. We went to another window. I held Tom's head out so he could get some air. I burned my hands on the bricks.

"Then I helped Tom out of the window and jumped, myself."

200,000 Flee Before Floods

Rovigo, Italy, (AP)—A wall of flood water five miles wide rolled slowly down the Po river toward the Adriatic yesterday, completely engulfing the city of Adria and driving the 35,000 people of Cavareze and Loreo from their homes. The worst flood disaster in Italy's modern history was driving an army of nearly 200,000 refugees before it, and already had taken a death toll of at least 100. Hundreds of thousands of acres lay under the brown devastation. Damage amounted to uncounted millions of dollars.

Together with storms which hit southern Italy and Sicily last month and took 110 lives, the flood was the worst natural disaster for Italy since the Messina earthquake of 1908.

Italian armed forces and civilian authorities marshaled all available amphibious equipment in an effort to save more than 35,000 persons marooned in the delta of the rampaging Po.

Investigation To Be Sought

Washington, (AP)—Congress will be asked in January to investigate the reports of atrocities in Korea in order to accumulate data for international trials similar to the war crimes proceedings after World War Two.

Rep. Madden (D-Ind) said yesterday he will ask for the inquiry. He heads a special House committee set up to dig into the facts of the alleged Russian massacre of 11,000 Polish officers early in the war, at Katyn Forest in West Russia. He proposed to include Communist barbarity in Korea.

The world was started last week by reports from Korea that nearly 6,000 Allied prisoners of war—5,500 of them Americans—had been slaughtered by their Communist captors since the outbreak of the fighting there.

That atrocities have occurred has now been verified by General Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme Allied commander, but the estimated number is still the object of "top priority" messages being sent out by the Pentagon. Some skepticism has been expressed as to the 5,500 total.

Vinson As Nominee?

Washington, (AP)—Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) said yesterday he believed President Truman would not run for the presidency again. He expressed the belief that Supreme Court Justice Vinson would be the Democratic candidate. Johnson said, however, that "if President Truman wants the nomination, he can have it just like that."

Disarmament Commission Big 3 Aim

Paris, (AP)—Great Britain, France and the United States called on the United Nations yesterday to create a 12-nation disarmament commission which would lay the groundwork for a world-wide arms reduction conference.

The proposed disarmament commission, which would replace the U. N.'s conventional armaments and atomic energy commissions, would be empowered to draw up treaties for the "regulation, limitation and balanced reduction of all armed forces and all armaments."

These treaties would then be considered by the international disarmament conference to which non-U. N. members, such as Communist China, would be invited.

The western plan, putting into a concrete resolution their earlier declaration on the need for step-by-step disarmament and a count of all weapons including the atomic, will be presented to the U. N. General Assembly's political committee by U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson this morning.

The disarmament commission, to be made up of the eleven members of the security council and Canada, would be subject to the veto. This means that the big five—Great Britain, China, France, Russia and the United States—can kill action with a single "no" vote. The western powers asked that the commission begin its complex and difficult job within 30 days of the adoption of the resolution.

It left the question of when to call the disarmament conference up to the commission itself, stipulating only that it shall do so "as soon as the work of the commission shall have progressed to a point where in the judgement of the commission any part of its program is ready to submission to governments."

Soviet Russia's latest disarmament proposals, submitted to the general assembly on Friday, directed a similar 12-nation commission to start work at once on the inspection and control of all weapons.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky, who described the four-point proposal as a supplement to Russia's earlier call for a world-wide disarmament conference, asked that the commission report to the security council by Feb. 1, 1952, which presumably would be within the life of the current assembly.

The western resolution reiterates earlier insistence on the necessity for "progressive disclosure and verification on a continuing basis of all armed forces—including para-military, security and police forces—and all armaments, including atomic."

2,000,000 Jews In Soviet Camps

New York, (AP)—The American Jewish committee said yesterday "thousands of the estimated two million Jews still alive in the Soviet Union are prisoners in Soviet slave labor and internment camps."

It also reported increasing anti-Semitism in the Soviet Union, citing outbreaks in some small Ukrainian towns.

The committee said its report is based on information gathered from Soviet sources, foreign diplomats, refugees and other observers.

The two girls from Penn Hall Junior College and Preparatory School at Chambersburg, Pa., were identified by police as Marion Traendly and Nancy Steck, whose father, Gustave, owns a hotel in Sea Girt, N. J.

Both are 17-years-old. Marion's father, John Traendly, is a prosperous Rowayton, Conn., flower merchant.

Police said the two ran away from Chambersburg Monday night rather than face discipline for unauthorized visits to a skating rink on Sunday.

Capt. George Risl, of the Norwalk, Conn., police, took a vacation and worked full time on the task of finding the girls. He used an expensive 1952 model automobile supplied by Marion's father in the search.

Risl told this story:

He said the girls spent Monday night in Hagers-town, Md., west of Baltimore. There, he said, a friendly shoe salesman, whom he would not name, bought them bus tickets to Baltimore.

In Baltimore they registered in a rooming house under fictitious names. They took a job in an East Baltimore drug store as soda jerks to make enough money for a trip to Florida.

Meanwhile, news that Traendly was offering a $500 reward for

U.S. Jet Airmen Shoot Up Eight MIGs On Ground In Unprecedented Air Strike

Seoul, Korea, Monday, (AP)—Two bold U. S. jet pilots flew within sight of Manchuria yesterday and shot up eight Communist jets, the first caught on the ground in the Korean war.

Seven more Red MIGs were reported hit in three air fights over North Korea.

Aground, hill-climbing troops of an oversized Allied division straightened out the line in central Korea with a one-mile advance which won a series of crests. The gain put the Allies astride the tumbling Pukhan river southeast of Kumsong.

In the west, British troops recaptured a hill west of Yonchon and then held it against fierce Chinese Red counterattacks which continued until last midnight.

The unprecedented air strike against a group of Red MIG jets caught on an airfield at Uiju definitely destroyed four MIGs, probably destroyed a fifth and damaged three, the U. S. Fifth Air Force reported today.

Originator Of Tax Fraud Cases Says Investigations 'Only Scratched Surface'

Washington, (AP)—Senator Williams (R-Del) said yesterday investigations of corruption in the government's tax collection machinery have "only scratched the surface."

He recommended "deeper digging" by congressional committees and called on the Truman administration for more cooperation.

"We've had no cooperation from the top officials in government in these exposures," said the senator, whom Republican colleagues credit with starting the current congressional probes of the internal revenue bureau.

He commented that the investigation of the Teapot Dome oil reserves scandal during the administration of President Calvin Coolidge was far different.

"President Coolidge opened his files, fired his attorney general and gave complete cooperation to the investigators," he said.

Williams aired his views on a TV show. John B. Dunlap, chairman of the Internal Revenue bureau, failed to appear on the program as scheduled. Network officials said Dunlap was suddenly taken ill.

Robert Ramspeck, chairman of the Civil Service commission, took his place. The subject for discussion: "Is there enough conscience in government?"

Williams said he disagreed with a statement attributed to Dunlap recently that the charges of corruption in the bureau should be "played down" because out of 56,000 employees the situations studied had brought only 22 resignations, suspensions or firings.

"That's not the point," said the senator. "The point is that 10 per cent of your tax collecting facilities have been exposed to have been under the jurisdiction and operation of men who have been denounced as crooks."

Five Perish In Fire, Trapped By Jammed Door

Urbana, O., (AP)—Five members of one family burned to death early yesterday when a jammed door trapped them in their flaming two-room home near Mutual in central Ohio.

The dead are Ben Cantrell, 33, a tenant farmer; his wife, Helen, 20, and their children, Diane Lynn, 4; Patsy, 3, and Sharon Kay, 1. Firemen recovered the bodies of Cantrell and the three children from the charred ruins of the house.

George Cantrell, Ben's brother, who lived in the other half of the house, smashed a window and dragged Mrs. Cantrell out. She died in Champaign county hospital in Urbana.

Two Girls Who Left Fashionable School To Become Soda Jerks Found In Baltimore, Md.

Baltimore, (AP)—The "working girl adventure" of two runaway girls, from an elite Pennsylvania preparatory school ended in tears and ice cream at the Baltimore police headquarters yesterday.

Both are 17-years-old. Marion's father, John Traendly, is a prosperous Rowayton, Conn., flower merchant.

Truce Teams Meet Again Wednesday

Munsan, Korea, Monday, (AP)—Cease-fire delegates met for an hour and 15 minutes today at Panmunjom—shortly after the Peiping Red radio broadcast approval of a Russian proposal for the 38th parallel to be the line of demarcation in divided Korea.

The 26th sub-committee session broke up at 12:15 p. m. (10:15 p. m. Sunday EST) after the Reds had requested a recess until Wednesday.

They said they wanted the time for further study of a United Nations plan for ending the Korean fighting before Christmas. The Allies agreed to the request, which omits any meeting Tuesday.

The U. N. plan included a truce line which begins slightly south of 38 in the west but extends up to more than 25 miles north of it in the east.

Before the meeting opened at 11 a. m., there was belief the Reds might give at least a provisional "yes."

The Allied delegates, Maj. Gen. Henry I. Hodes and Rear Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, motored from Munsan to Panmunjom prepared to clarify the four-point proposal, submitted Saturday, seeking to complete an armistice within 30 days.

On Sunday the Communists asked clarification on a number of points. The United Nations spokesman, Lt. Col. Howard S. Levie, said the Reds "appeared satisfied with the answers they received."

Outside the drab green conference tent at Panmunjom Communist correspondents, who frequently serve as unofficial Red spokesmen, said they felt their side would offer no serious opposition to the U. N. proposal.

However, the Communist correspondents indicated some rephrasing might be suggested, particularly to clarify point 4.

The four Allied points were:

One — Hostilities to continue until an armistice is signed;

Two — The present battle line to be a provisional cease-fire line;

Three — This line to become final if a full armistice is reached within 30 days; and Four — If the armistice is not reached within 30 days, negotiations will start over by drawing a new cease-fire line based on whatever the battle line may be at that time.

The fourth point goes on to say that a new cease-fire line would "be effective under such conditions as will be at that time mutually agreed to by the delegations of both sides."

The Communists apparently want clarification as to just what that means.

The Reds also asked when the 30-day period would begin.

Allied sub-delegates referred them to the text of the proposal, which says the provisional cease-fire line will be the permanent line "in any armistice signed within 30 days after this agreement is accepted by the two delegations in plenary session."

Arm Missing
From Body Of Slain Woman

Bristol, (AP)—The discovery of an almost nude body of a woman on the banks of the Delaware river near Edgely, shy one arm and with two holes in the skull, was termed yesterday "the strangest case I have encountered" by Coroner J. Alfred Rigby of Bucks county.

Rigby said that the woman, still unidentified, apparently had been slain and dumped in the mud. A preliminary autopsy failed to establish the exact cause of death. However Rigby disclosed it had been determined the woman had been dead about six months.

The coroner said it had not been determined what made the two holes, one above the left ear, the other above the neck.

The body was found yesterday by three small boys who were on a morning hike with their dog. The dog came across the body while running through the brush.

Roads Turn Slippery On Heels Of Snow, Freezing Weather

Storm Hits All Sections Of County

Nature put the deep-freeze on the Poconos over the weekend forcing highway department cinder crews to stay on main routes most of last night in an effort to cut down driving hazards on icy highways and reopen impassable roads.

Although local snowfall ranged from a mild two-inch estimate at Mount Pocono to Tobyhanna's reported four inches, some sections of Pennsylvania showed every sign of being "snowed in" in the first severe storm of the winter.

The State's heaviest snowfall was reported at Kane. Snow police there said from 15 to 18 inches of snow had fallen in that region during the 24-hour period ending at 9 p. m. yesterday. At that time it was still snowing in Kane.

Several highway fatalities had been reported throughout the State. Traffic conditions, in the first county-wide snowstorm of the winter, had caused no fatalities in the Poconos, however.

The worst local traffic condition was reported on and near Effort mountain, the approach to Wilkes-Barre. From 6 to 9 p. m. yesterday State police reported severe traffic pileups all along Route 115 into Wilkes-Barre. Two cinder crews were called in. State police took over the direction of traffic after dark.

According to Mount Pocono police all roads in that area were icy with light, intermittent snow preventing the successful clearing of highways throughout the afternoon and night. In that area several cars skidded off highways but no damage had been reported to officials there.

The snow came in squalls. Highway department crews kept up a valiant attempt to beat ice formation of roads where vehicles packed the light snow into a tight crust.

Three trucks from the Mount Pocono department, with crews consisting of eight men, had succeeded late last night in clearing most lower highways from Mount Pocono to Tannersville. Secondary roads and highways in the upper regions were still listed as "very slippery" by officials last night, with some prospect of improvement by this morning "if there's no more snow". Lower routes were reported "pretty well under control".

Roads in and around Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg and Milford were considered in better condition than elsewhere. Spot reports, however, showed even these were slippery in certain areas.

Officials at the Department of Highways in East Stroudsburg said a total of seven trucks had been sent out with the first truck called to duty about 4:30 Sunday around Effort and Blakeslee.

Along with the weekend snow came a dip in temperatures which sent most motorists rushing to the nearest garage or station to have their anti-freeze checked.

Official instruments at Mount Pocono airport recorded a low of 20 degrees during the night Saturday. The temperature at the airport was reported as 23 degrees last night at 6 with indications that the thermometer would go even lower during the night. Yesterday's high there was 31 degrees.

Snowfall at Mount Pocono was reported as slightly "over two inches" according to instrument measurement. At Tobyhanna unofficial sources reported three-and-a-half to four inches over the weekend.

All roads in the Pittsburgh district were reported icy. Buses running in and out of the metropolis were anywhere from 30 minutes to an hour late.

The northern section of Mercer county was also hit by a several-inch snowfall and roads were icy there. The same conditions were reported in Venango, Clarion and Erie counties. Erie reported only snow flurries, but icing conditions developed shortly after dusk as the mercury dropped below the freezing mark.

Westmoreland, Somerset, Clearfield and Indiana counties reported from one to four inches of snow. Most roads were dangerous.

Throughout the state, highway department workmen were hampered by mercury which hovered near the freezing mark most of the day and was expected to slide as low as 16 degrees in some sections during the night.

Andrews Rites Held At Bangor

Bangor—Funeral services were held Saturday for Mrs. Emma Repsher Andrews, wife of James Andrews, South Main St., Bangor, from the Hough funeral home.

Rev. J. Frederick Stoltz, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church, was the officiating clergyman. Pallbearers were Robert Andrews, Fred Andrews, Richard Dennis and George Ott Jr.

Interment was made in the Union cemetery, Stone Church.

The California condor is believed to have the widest wingspread of any North American wild fowl. It measures from nine to 11 feet from wing tip to wing tip.

A NEAR-EMPTY field was the scene yesterday afternoon at Mount Pocono airport, where snow flurries cut visibility and prevented arrival of some 50 planes expected as part of the tri-state Civil Air Patrol disaster test. Only 14 planes were actually registered during the day. The light craft pictured in the background above is taking off after performing a courier mission. Snow Hinders Mount Pocono Phase Of CAP Disaster Test

Mount Pocono—Biggest disaster test ever staged in America by the civil defense air arm was held over a three-state area yesterday.

Focal point of the Pennsylvania phase was the Mount Pocono airport. The operation involved New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

The maneuvers, a dawn-to-dusk affair, were staged by the Civil Air Patrol, volunteer auxiliary of the United States Air Force. Cooperating were 400 CAP pilots, 600 rated observers, 350 planes and approximately 1,000 ground force workers.

A CAP spokesman said the test went smoothly, according to schedule, and without incident.

Purpose was to show how the part-time fliers would aid the three-state area in case of a real disaster.

Test commander was Col. Phillip F. Neuweller, commander of the CAP Pennsylvania wing, assisted by Col. Carl Meyer, of New York and Col. Irving J. Feist, of New Jersey.

All three men spent the greater part of the day standing in the chill snow flurries, which swirled through the area here and kept dozens of expected aircraft from landing at the Mount Pocono field.

The field, located just north of the borough, had the appearance of a war-time outpost. Kakihi uniforms young men carrying policeman's bills instead of firearms, all with CAP insignia on their collars, halted all cars with, "Let's see your I.D. (identification) card."

Cars of CAP pilots, women wearing CAP uniforms, ground-force workers and CAP brass, lined the soggy dirt road from the edge of the airport to the landing strip itself.

The 300-odd workers and observers hurried between heated emergency truck units, radio shack, and operations building.

Guards were on their toes. "Saboteurs" dispatched from Philadelphia attempted twice to "wreck" the GHQ or "damage" one of the planes.

Both times the two "enemy agents" came through the woods—at 10:30 p. m. Saturday, shortly after headquarters had been set up, and at 4 a. m. Sunday—and both times were caught before they could complete their missions of "sabotage."

The snow flew thick and icy at intervals during the day. A great "Albatross" land-sea plane had stopped at the airport Saturday, en route to join a bona fide search for a missing Army plane in Florida. Snow kept it earth-bound until late yesterday.

Six Air Force planes landed during the day, with Air Force observers who checked progress and operations, then took off for further checks in the other two states.

Where some 50 planes had been expected, however, snow conditions reduced the actual number to 14 CAP pilots. Weather did not hamper operations at Westchester County airport in White Plains.

Volunteers Ready Seals For Mailing

Preparation and mailing of Christmas seals to some 9,000 Monroe county residents was achieved for Monroe County Tuberculosis society by scores of volunteers representing varied organizations in this region.

The seals and some bonds will be delivered in homes and offices all over the county today. Response with the enclosed return envelopes by all of the 9,000 recipients is essential to maintain the TB society's x-ray program and its effective, continuing battles against tuberculosis.

About 8,000 of those receiving Christmas seals or bonds received free x-rays under a program sponsored by the TB society this year. That group does not include hundreds of school children who also received free x-rays.

This program will be continued during 1952 together with a project to x-ray every patient admitted to General hospital for a six-month period with monies received from sale of Christmas seals and bonds.

Two Unhurt As Driver Dozes, Car Hits Tree

Tafton — Two Bloomfield, N. J., men escaped injury when one fell asleep at the wheel near here yesterday and their car crashed into a tree.

Milford State police said Myles Francis Sahara, 18, the driver, and John Albert Dick, a passenger, climbed out of the demolished auto with only a few minor bumps and bruises.

Despite the force of the impact, which tore off both front fenders and wheels, police said the two men had presence of mind enough to pull a burning front seat cushion out of the vehicle. They did not know how it caught fire.

When police arrived about 8:30 a. m. the cushion had burned to the springs. Both men refused medical attention.

Sahara said he had fallen asleep, and Dick was already sleeping. The vehicle veered off Route 6 about a mile west of the Route 402 intersection, missed a telephone pole, traveled 83 yards on the dirt, jumped a 5-foot-wide 2-foot-deep ditch, hit the tree and rolled onto its side.

Police said the sleepy, relaxed condition of both men probably saved them from more serious injury at the moment of impact.

Bear Season Opens Today; Snowfall To Aid Hunters; Plentiful Supply Reported

Nimrods with a thirst for big game can unpack their rifles and start out after a bearskin rug for the living room anytime after seven this morning.

The week-long bear hunting season opens this morning and ends Saturday, November 24 at 5 p. m. Hunters in this area are predicting a good kill for the week.

According to District Game Protector John Doebling, Stroudsburg, there are plenty of bears around. Doebling has had three "bear-damage" cases in the past seven days—all of them involving bee-hives—between Marshalls Creek and Bushkill. (The State Game commission pays damages on property destroyed by bears on reconnaissance).

A lot of hunters who have tried bear hunting during the past several years will go along with Doebling's estimate of yesterday's weather as good "tracking" snow. For the first time in a number of years, there will be enough snow on the ground during the first day of the season to permit "tracking" a bear along a trail, Doebling said.

Bears over one year old are legal game. An individual may take one bear during this seven-day season. A hunting party of three or more is allowed two bears. Cubs, however, are fully protected by game laws.

The State Game commission reports that bears are widely distributed, usually in places where there is plenty of food and cover. The commission also cautions hunters to make certain that a bear is of legal age before shooting, commenting:

"A legal bear is a large one. No true sportsman wants to take home a small trophy. Certainly he doesn't want to kill a cub still with its mother. There is no excuse for shooting a bear of questionable age."

Beyond the question of legality, the commission said, another searching look is needed to "distinguish a bear from a hunter who is foolish enough not to wear plenty of red or some other distinguishing color".

In either case—the hunter who accidentally gets shot or the too-young bear—it's the guy with the itchy trigger finger who usually makes the fatal mistake. The best advice is—always look twice before taking aim. Then take another good look before firing.

A new law permitting small game hunting with semi-automatic shotguns does not apply to bear hunting. Pump shotguns firing rifled slugs or balls may be used, however.

St. Matthew's To Help Clothe Refugees

As a part of the national campaign by Catholic dioceses, St. Matthew's church in East Stroudsburg is now collecting clothing and bedding for Korean, European, Near and Far Eastern refugees.

Clothing of all kinds, blankets, bedding, heavy cotton or woolen underwear, heavy socks and almost "any kind of wearable garment" are needed for the collection. Children's clothing and bedding is badly needed "at all times", according to local officials for the campaign.

When shoes are turned over to the agency, they should be mated and tied together. All types of serviceable men's shoes can be used. Women's high-heeled shoes and evening shoes are not practical for areas to which the garments are to be sent.

The following places have been listed as collection points: Driebes' Park market, 6th St.; Matteo Dave market, lower Main St. both in Stroudsburg and DeLuca's Shoe Repair, opposite East Stroudsburg High school and the basement of St. Matthew's Catholic church on Ridgeway St., East Stroudsburg.

Persons with a large collection may phone 3873 after 5:30 p. m. for pick-up service.

Steel Wage Demands

Benjamin Fairless, president of United States Steel Corp., made a speech in Cincinnati a few days ago.

The speech obviously was prepared before the CIO Steelworkers Union, meeting in Atlantic City, announced its program. But Mr. Fairless must have had more than a broad hint of what was coming.

He said any wage boosts for steelworkers would raise the price of steel, and hence the over-all cost of living.

So the steelworkers came up with a list of 22 demands, including, apparently, a big wage increase.

It already has been bluntly indicated that the union is ready to strike, if necessary, to enforce its demands. A strike, as Mr. Fairless said, it "unthinkable" while Americans are losing their lives in Korea.

It is pretty safe to predict that the alternative will be Government permission to raise steel wages, and steel prices, thus punching another big gap in the so-called stabilization program.

Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston picked a good day to resign.

He Missed One

Budget Director Frederick J. Lawton says the Government probably will run from five to eight billion dollars in the red in the fiscal year ending July 1.

That ought to be easy for this administration. It already has spent nearly six billions more than it has taken in since the fiscal year began.

Mr. Lawton says there are only two ways to "pay the Government's bills"—tax or borrow. If Congress sticks to its refusal to levy more taxes, it is clear the Administration intends to borrow. And borrow, and borrow.

But there is one other way to avoid a deficit—a way which no Administration official ever mentions:

Quit spending so much, uselessly.

Time Marches On

The town of Newburyport, Mass., got into the news the other day. The event wasn't much. Just a 95-year-old resident who has been driving autos since 1898, when he started with a White steamer.

But the town's name recalls a valiant attempt to stop inflation that was launched there when inflation was just a pup. The Newburyport Plan, they called it. Merchants voluntarily reduced their prices to halt the growth of the monster. Other places please copy.

GS, for the inflation we had when the Newburyport Plan was started, or even when it failed.

It Won't Work

A novel plan of watchdogging our defense spending has been advanced by Chairman Mahon, a Texas Democrat, of the House Appropriations subcommittee which handles money bills for the armed forces.

He has asked all House members to check up on spending at military and defense-industry centers in their own congressional districts. He wants them to turn in information as to whether or not the services are operating on "a fairly common-sense and economical basis" in the congressmen's respective areas.

We think nothing much will come of it. It's like asking an advertising writer to list all the faults of a product he's trying to put over. Congressmen may be quick enough to put the finger on extravagances in other districts—but they're conveniently blind to what goes on in their own.

Nobody, as Al Smith once said, ever picks a fight with Santa Claus.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Margaret Case Harriman recalls in "The Vicious Circle" how Frank Adams once took Harold Ross, the New Yorker's editor, tobogganing in the country. Monday, when they were back at the Round Table in the Algonquin, somebody asked him how Ross had looked tobogganing. Adams stole a look across the table at Ross' unique and unforgettable profile and said thoughtfully, "Well, you know how he looks not tobogganing!"

Miss Harriman tells another story about the day somebody came around the Algonquin lobby selling tickets for a charity dance to be given for the benefit of the A. S. P. C. A. "How much are they?" asked Kate Sprouhne. The answer was "Fifteen dollars apiece." "Goodness," Miss Sprouhne exclaimed innocently, "Wouldn't it be cheaper to buy a horse and just be kind to it?"

Hollywood

By Gene Handsaker

Hollywood—If you've a loved one in Korea, it'd do you good to visit an ex-luxurious building on a business street here. It's the shipshape, humming headquarters of the Armed Forces Radio Service—and it sends out enough information and entertainment to the men overseas to be called super-colossal.

Comprehending its wide activity is a little like imagining light years between stars. It has, the State Department estimates, 90 million listeners—counting, of course, civilian populations where our forces are stationed.

It sends on 71 stations, including 200,000-watt bellows shared with the Voice of America and aimed at the Orient and Europe along both U. S. coasts. Other stations range down to 1,000-watters, and even weaker sisters, manned by GI technicians and announcers for morale at home—contact on islands and other far-away places. AFRS also serves earphone networks to patients in 54 military hospitals in the United States.

Have another appalling statistic, this one in wax: Every week a truck leaves for the airport or freight depot with some 6,000 transcriptions. These king-size recordings go wherever there are GIs.

To all this activity Hollywood contributes its talent and skill free. Phonograph record companies make available their latest releases. These are copied off on the big transcription platters bearing the AFRS label. All the top and near-the-top radio programs go out the same way after being "de-commercialized." Music or talk or just plain abbreviation replaces advertising plugs.

Sports? There's more than the hardest fans hear broadcast here at home. Baseball, football, basketball, boxing, tennis, hockey, swimming. In horse racing, only the Kentucky Derby is aired, an AFRS statement says, "to discourage prospective bookies in the service."

Some sports programs, like the recent World Series go out "live," others by "delayed broadcast." Thus, on a Saturday, the GIs may hear as many as six major football games.

These Days — By George E. Sokolsky

explaining to an audience of newspapermen the dangers to them and their country of the so-called covenant on human rights which the United Nations, including some shameless Americans, are trying to put over on us. I am sure that these men did not realize the importance or the seriousness of the senator's speech. Unfortunately, we possess so great a wealth of liberty that we often disregard our treasures.

Compare, for example, amendment 1 to the constitution of the United States with article 14, paragraph 3, of the draft covenant on human rights!

The first amendment of the American constitution reads: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

Washington Report

By Fulton Lewis Jr.

Washington, Nov. 18.—The editors of Time magazine had in their possession two military intelligence reports listing Gustavo Duran as a Communist when they labeled Senator Joseph R. McCarthy a liar for having so labeled him.

The reports, in memorandum form, were sent to Time's New York office in 1947. Time's editors, as McCarthy has pointed out, also had a report from a Time reporter who toured with the Senator recently stating that "the evidence on Duran was one of the most convincing links in the picture of Communist infiltration of government." Yet Time calls Duran "clearly anti-Communist."

Col. Wendell G. Johnson, military attaché, American Embassy in Spain, filed a confidential intelligence report on Duran in 1946. This is one of the memoranda in Time files. It reads in part:

"Duran became one of the leading members of the Youths of the Communist Party and greatly contributed to the merger of the Communist Youths with the Spanish Labor party. When the international brigades were Aranjuez fronts, Gustavo Duran formed part of the High Russian General Staff, with headquarters at Tarancon and its vicinity, where they left sad and hideous recollections."

Duran is now on the United Nations payroll engaged in work having to do with screening refugees coming into this country.

When Col. Johnson wrote his intelligence summary, Duran was in Washington working for Spruille Braden, former Ambassador to Argentina.

The other intelligence file on Duran in possession of Time magazine when it published the article on McCarthy was compiled by Lieut. Edward J. Ruff, assistant military attaché in the Dominican Republic. Addressed to the American Intelligence Service, it was dated December 30, 1943.

A previous report on Duran by Ruff had aroused the State Department's ire. Ruff got a letter labeling his report "absolutely incorrect." He replied:

"Our only statement in the report on Duran is that he was a member of the Communist party in Spain. From further reports received, this information can now be evaluated as A-1. For your own knowledge, the information on Duran was submitted by a Spanish refugee who also served as a lieutenant colonel in the Spanish Republican (Communist) army and had served on Duran's promotion board in Spain, which board was charged with considering Duran's promotion. As our source was actually sitting on the board, he himself saw all Duran's papers and letters and had access to complete information regarding Duran's background."

"I myself, am convinced that Duran was a Communist and consider Ambassador Braden's statement that he (Duran) is a 'Liberal of the highest type' to be an euphemism. Under the circumstances I believe the reliability of our report still remains as originally submitted."

With this evidence at hand, Time magazine labeled Duran an anti-Communist who spent the war years tracking down Red agents in Cuba. This sort of thing doesn't help Time's reputation for accuracy. Maybe it can explain how the two intelligence summaries were overlooked in its own files, but why Time failed to stumble once still another ripe source on Duran is a real mystery. McCarthy calls it "sinker dishonesty."

Indalecio Prieto, former Minister of Defense for the Spanish Republic cause the Communists, has written a book called, "Why and How I Let the Defeat Ministry in the Intrigue of Russia in Spain." Prieto ran the S.I.M., the Spanish counter-part of the Russian Secret Police. Duran worked for him. He booted Duran out of the S.I.M. and as a redress of grievances."

That amendment simply says, with regard to the press, that Congress shall make no laws abridging its freedom. There are no ifs, no whereases, no buts. Article 14, paragraph 3, of the United Nations covenant is more involved, more wordy, because it seeks to suppress freedom of the press. Read it:

"The right to seek, receive and impart information and ideas carries with it special duties and responsibilities and may therefore be subject to certain penalties, liabilities, and restrictions, but these shall be such only as are provided by law and are necessary for the protection of national security, public order, safety, health or morals, or of the rights, freedoms or reputations of others."

Under this provision, newspapers, magazines, news-gathering agencies, wire-services and that part of radio which supplies news or comment would be limited to exactly what the government of a country wanted its people to be told. The competition for news and the contentiousness over views would disappear and in their place would stand only the propaganda of officialdom—the partisanship and bias of those in power, protecting their vested interest in the status quo. There is no freedom in that.

Of this provision the State department once said that it was "generally satisfactory from the point of view of the United States"—a statement which is not and cannot be true. Actually the people of the United States have not been consulted concerning it and most of us hardly know what is being done about it. The covenant was conceived in secrecy and proclaimed only to the initiated. It is so long and confused a document that few bother to read it.

Senator Bricker said before the Slurians in New York:

"The most dangerous feature of article 14 of the draft covenant is the authority to impose penalties and restrictions on the press to ensure 'national security.' Because modern war is total war, almost every activity can be linked with some facet of 'national security.' For that reason the term 'national security' could be used to justify almost any restriction on the press which the President and the Congress might choose to impose."

The real danger is that it is not Congress that is legislating for the United States in this respect. It is a foreign, an alien body, the United Nations, most of whose members have never known freedom in their own countries—certainly not freedom of the press. Most of them abhor freedom as dangerous to those who control their people either in the slavery of Sovietism or in the tight grip of feudalism. Such men and women are legislating for us.

And when we accept their legislative decisions in the form of a treaty, our courts hold that a treaty, once signed by the President and ratified by the Senate in accordance with the constitution, is the law of the land.

Legislation by treaty can reduce to ashes the freedoms which the constitution guarantees.

Senator Bricker said:

"... the words 'national security, public order, safety and health or morals' are flexible enough to satisfy any dictator who wants to control the press of his country. Dr. Goebbels' position as editor-in-chief of the German press met the requirement of 'national security.' A dictator is the government. A dictator's safety, security, health, and reputation are all jeopardized by an independent press. Why give these loathsome tyrants legal sanction for operating, regulating or intimidating the press?"

Why, indeed?

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Letter to a Crooner.
Newspapermen by the score were amused the other day to get invitations addressed "Dear Friend," and inviting them to a party, from a famous movie and video crooner who a few days before had been extra snarly toward the press, demanding "How did these creeps get here?" and threatening to knock them flat if they annoyed him in covering a job as a legitimate duty. It read, believe it or not: "I am throwing a party. There'll be some food and drink and a lot of laughs. We'll also take a look at my new movie. I'd like very much to have you and a guest on hand. We'll have the joint jumping. Sincerely, etc."

No insults, no sneers or threats! A real invitation to approach! You could have knocked us over with a wedding march when we got one, so we wrote an answer at once:

Far-From-Dearest Friend:

Have received your invitation. Letter telling you what to do with it will follow in asbestos wrapper. I would drop in, mister, except for a few reasons: (1) I am a newspaperman and proud of it; (2) I want no part of any celebrity who turns on the press after having reached a position of affluence largely through a newspaper build-up; (3) Food and drink from a petulant crooner don't bowl me over; (4) I know easier ways to get laughs than attending parties staged to create good will for a new picture starring a crooner.

I might insist that the newspaper profession is a great one, ranking a million miles above that of crooners. I might ask if you ever heard of Dana, Scripps, Howard, Greeley, Pulitzer, Hearst, Bennett and others who contributed much to America and were never dependent on a microphone, script writers, Tin Pan Alley and "sweetheart" songs. That might start trouble as it did offend you to hear that they did it without orchestral accompaniments and bobbysocks appeal. One has to be careful.

You address me as "Dear Friend." Bub, you're crazy. I never even met you. I don't even know you well enough for you to call me a creep and ask how I got in. But, since I am a newspaperman, I must forget and ask me that question, forcing me to reply "Don't you remember? You invited me." This put you in the tough position of being a fellow who thinks a newspaperman is a creep under some conditions and a pal under others. Also I sometimes show up with a camera and you know how newspaper photographers displease you. If you discovered there was a prospect of your photo getting into some newspaper, you might blow your top. Boy, would the joint jump.

So include me out. I am rather a fussy creep as creeps go. I am sending back your invitation but keeping a copy to be filed with the reports of your recent hassles with the press. I imagine many newspapermen all over the country are doing likewise. It makes a sort of interesting souvenir in the filing cabinet in the category marked "Creeps." Dear Friends, Hosts, Famous Minor Battles of New Jersey," etc. Have a nice time and don't try to do anything John L. Sullivan and Napoleon couldn't do.

Sincerely and how!

My New York

—By Mel Heimer

New York—I met Bunny Johnson this morning and later, when I sat down to write about her, I thought I would start off by calling her a brave person. But that didn't seem strong enough. Whatever she has transcended bravery; it goes into unbelievable doggedness, tenacity or, possibly, fanaticism.

Bunny is a honey-haired girl from Stratford, Conn., who a few years ago came down to New York to become one of John Robert Powers' best models. She worked at it for about a year and then she dropped out of sight in a way, it was understandable. She had been knocked flat on her back by arthritis.

It's tough to see anyone with arthritis—I have an uncle who is the salt of the earth and has had it for 30 years; I have sat at his bedside and thought darkly of at least 15 persons who should have had it instead of him—but to see someone as young and pretty as Bunny racked by it isn't pleasant.

There were two items, however, to brighten the day. We were sitting in one of the offices of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, in the Biltmore—Bunny spends as much of her spare time as possible trying to help the foundation's campaign-fund drive—and she told me, calmly and undramatically, how she had fought for years now against the ailment. She seems to be winning.

She spent all night, night after night, week after week, just pressing down on her paralyzed knees in a special set of dynamic-tension exercises—and now she has the use of her knees. The arthritis has settled in her hip area now and it looks as if an operation is next in line. She has driven herself almost unmercifully in her fight against it. Whether she will win the fight is anyone's guess—but when you talk to her, you don't see how she can miss.

The other bright item: Bunny lives by herself in a little apartment near Columbia University—and there, friends are forever dropping in to cheer her, amuse her, argue with her, and cook, iron and wash for her. She just sits there in her wheelchair and watches them, or joins in, and loves every minute of it, in spite of the constant pain. I am a suspicious and cynical man—and to learn that there are foul-weather friends like Bunny's made my day, anyway, a complete one.

They opened a new East Side restaurant the other evening, a small, intimate, luxurious little place on Upper Second Avenue called Maud Chez Elle, and I was happy to notice, among the assorted socialites, breakfast-broadcasting team, and other free-lancers who turned up for the opening, the small, elegant man named Michael Arlen.

It could be that since the death of James J. Walker, once never forgotten, the debonair Mr. Arlen is the man who best illustrates that odd, exotic, foolishly absorbing café society way of life in Manhattan.

The amiable Maud did well in having him on hand for the unveiling of her fur-lined estate; this is something like obtaining the Good Housekeeping seal of approval.

These must be difficult times for Mr. Arlen. Not because he no longer is writing much of anything. After he was such a literary lion of the Twenties, with his glittering The Green Hat and at its most wonderful of all heroines, Irish March, he quite candidly admitted that writing as such didn't intrigue him. "Turning out two books a year, all alike is my idea of decay and desperation," he said with obvious distaste.

No—Mr. Arlen must be having a hard life because elegance is disappearing from the scene result got in trouble with the Russians. It's all in his book, which I now recommend to the editors of Time magazine and to all their writers and researchers.

When the anthropologists of the future rummage through the caves of 1951, also known as apartments, and discover the strange rouges, lipsticks and other cosmetics used by what they will undoubtedly call the female apes of the 20th century, I think they will wonder what

Looking at Life

By Erich Brandeis

Brandeis

Casts of reconstructed million-year-old skulls and other bones unearthed in Africa have been acquired by the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D. C.

The Museum authorities believe that study of the bones may open an entirely new chapter in man's prehistory.

The bones belong to "Australopithecus," a curious ape-like creature with primitive human characteristics.

Anthropologists think this mammal represented an early tendency toward the development of man that came to a dead end.

In reading the report of the discovery, I came to a halt right there.

"The development of man that came to a dead end," it says.

I wonder sometimes whether our present-age development has not come to a dead end.

I wonder, also, what the anthropologists of thousands of years hence will think of us when they discover our bones and when they write their report for the Smithsonian Institution of the year 100,000 or something like that.

"Australopithecus stood erect in contrast to other apes living and extinct, says the report.

When you see the people of today hunched over in their automobiles or sitting on bar stools in cocktail lounges, I am afraid posterity won't find our bones those of apes who stood erect.

When the anthropologists of the future rummage through the caves of 1951, also known as apartments, and discover the strange rouges, lipsticks and other cosmetics used by what they will undoubtedly call the female apes of the 20th century, I think they will wonder what strange sort of animals we were.

I don't know what they will call us. Maybe the "Trumanopithecus" or the "Democratopithecus." I hope it will be a nice, important-sounding name. We will have deserved at least that much from posterity.

And if those scientists of the one-thousandth century could only see what my wife and I have seen on this recent trip of ours, I am sure they would definitely class us as some sort of apes.

For instance, in Texas, right next to an oil well we paid 34 cents per gallon of gasoline.

In Louisiana with thousands of acres in sugar plantations, the women pay just as much for sugar as they do in New York or Connecticut.

In Alabama there were literally miles of peanut farms. Yet peanuts in the grocery store sold for as much as they do in Illinois or South Dakota.

Wherever we went we saw thousands of cattle, sleek-looking, well-fed cattle. There seemed to be no end to them—cattle, cattle everywhere. Yet, in every cafe where we ate, steak was just as high as if it had come from thousands of miles away.

Another thing the anthropologists of tomorrow won't be able to understand is the liquor laws. I don't understand them at all. Every State has its own laws.

The general idea seems to be "Vote dry, drink wet."

I found that the driest states are the wettest, and where liquor is supposed to be taboo it is the easiest to get.

Maybe the museum authorities of tomorrow will be able to solve the liquor problem. By the year 100,000 something about getting

Bedding Co. Urges Buying Of Mattresses

If you are in the market for a new mattress, you'd better visit the East Stroudsburg Bedding Co. showrooms, 437 Main St., in Stroudsburg.

Everyone is interested in shaving a dollar or two off his expense list these days and East Stroudsburg Bedding Co. has been specializing in this admirable practice for years.

Fabian Lauer, managing owner of the company, points out that over one-half of the firm's business is devoted to repair work and the making over of old mattresses and box springs.

Mr. Lauer also notes the cost is less than one-half that of a new mattress and the savings are "terrific".

Since 1928 the firm has been manufacturing some of the finest types of mattresses and box springs. East Stroudsburg Bedding Co. also specializes in upholstery work and rebuilding innerspring mattresses. All work is guaranteed.

Book Grading, Excavating Work Early

Pardee Place, local contracting engineer, of East Stroudsburg RD., urges anyone planning for any excavating or grading work, whether for home, business property or roads, to have this work done as soon as possible.

Mr. Place, an experienced operator with a capable group of employees, said early snows and scarcity of equipment for duplicate jobs, make it necessary for such work to be booked early.

He said his present labor forces and his wide range of equipment make it possible for him to say "No job is too big and no job too small" for prompt action from his firm.

Mr. Place is equipped to do any shovel or crane work. Bulldozers are available for light and heavy work.

His equipment includes trenching machines for digging certain types of foundations and for laying all types of pipe lines.

Mr. Place is also equipped with all sizes of trucks for hauling anything, whether it be topsoil, shale, fill or general material.

Mr. Place has been operating in this region for many years. During that time he has concentrated on acquiring the latest and most varied equipment and to creating a sound operating force.

Pardee Place will receive calls for all types of work at Phone 1758. He is prepared to give prompt estimates and schedule any type work.

Stephen Kriesch, of Herrick Center, Pa., and Miss Donna Lee, of Starrucia, Pa., were united in marriage at the Baptist parsonage on Friday, Nov. 9, at 12 o'clock noon by the Rev. Elias Jones, pastor of the Portland Baptist church. They were unattended and left after the ceremony on a wedding trip through the New England States.

Rev. and Mrs. Elias Jones, of the Baptist parsonage, recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Thomas of Olyphant, and Mrs. Joseph Jenkins and daughter, of West Scranton.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Kennedy and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Williams have returned home after spending several days with the Williams' daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Strunk and son, William, at Secret Lake Conn. Frank Wilson, of Spring Valley, N. Y., spent the week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Williams and Mrs. Lela Pipher and daughter, Mildred.

More Than 80 Square Feet Of Furniture Store Devoted To Huge Display Of Toys

The A. C. Miller furniture store, corner Fourth and Main Sts., Stroudsburg, boasts one of the largest Christmas toylands in this vicinity.

One of the most popular spots in Miller's main floor toyland is the model railroad display. Here the famous "romance of model railroad" tradition is carried on for the pleasure of enthusiastic fathers and sons alike.

The "talking station," which shouts out the arrival and departure of the puffing locomotives and fast diesels, is proving to be a main attraction for all ages. The little station with its booming "voice" lends an authentic note of realism to the miniature villages and model railroad display.

A. C. Miller is again featuring the famous Lionel trains and accessories.

Model railroad enthusiasts have long known that Lionel details are "blueprint correct." The thrill of model railroading is in operating trains and railside equipment that are just as life-like as they can be made. True to tradition, as the A. C. Miller railroad display points out, Lionel engineers have employed painstaking care to reproduce actual railroad equipment.

Visitors at the A. C. Miller toyland will be surprised at the speed these new Lionel trains maintain, even when swung into a tight, "U" curve.

The secret of this is what Lionel calls "Magne-Traction." "Magne-Traction" is an ingenious application of permanent magnetic power, through the all-steel wheels of Lionel locos . . . so the train grips the track for full driving power at all times, even on steep grades.

But the Lionel model railroading display is only one aspect of the large A. C. Miller toyland. More than 80 square feet alone are devoted to the display of doll carriages, many of which are authentic copies of the kind that mother uses. There is also a huge selection of dolls from the very small to those that are life-size and do everything but carry on a conversation.

There are trucks, wagons, airplanes, guns that shoot ping pong balls, little boys that whistle a merry tune, plastic canaries that chirp away until someone winds them up again and playful looking monkeys that actually do somersaults. For all your Christmas shopping, visit the A. C. Miller toyland.

Official Vote Canvass Confirms GOP Sweep In County

Control Three Offices For First Time

For the first time in the history of the corporate structure of Monroe county, the Republican party has gained control of the county's top administrative offices—county commissioners, the office of prothonotary and clerk of the courts, and control of the board of Monroe county auditors.

Republicans also gained control of the office of district attorney—not a first in either the party's or county's history—through election of Attorney Elmer D. Christine over District Attorney Detlef A. Hansen, Democratic incumbent in the tightest race of the county office election. Christine won by 16 votes—5,814 to 5,798 for Hansen.

Completion of the official canvass and computation of votes cast for candidates at the November 6 primary, including six military ballots, on Saturday resulted in a final, official list of totals for candidates showing the Republican party had taken over control of these offices.

The vote will stand unless challenged by regular legal procedure with a recount process set in motion through petition to the court which would necessitate posting a $50 bond covering every district in which any such recount might be achieved.

There were no indications during the weekend any of the county offices involved in the November 6 election would be subjected to such a maneuver by either the Democratic party or its candidates.

While the Republicans were gaining control of three offices, the Democratic party won back the office of sheriff, retained control of the office of register of wills and recorder of deeds and, of course, elected minority member candidates for county commissioner and county auditor.

Taking over control of the strategic county commissioners office will be Sheriff Amzi F. Altomose and W. Adolph Rake. Oddly, besides being Republicans, they are both building contractors.

Final official count shows Altomose received 5,955, Rake 5,719 votes with Democratic County Chairman Granville Shiffer, and incumbent for the office being named minority member of the board of commissioners with 5,294. Out of the running came George E. Shick, Democrat, with 5,047 votes.

Jacob F. Altomose, Stroudsburg, the Democratic party's nominee for sheriff won the office by 103 votes. Altomose received 5,900 to 5,797 for Victor Henning, the Republican nominee and chief deputy sheriff under the four year elected term of Sheriff Amzi F. Altomose and during Mr. Altomose's service as an appointee to fill the unexpired term of the late Sheriff Eugene A. Serfass.

Claude E. Metzgar, a Democratic office holder in the court house prothonotary and clerk of the courts office for 12 years, was stopped by the young West End dairy farmer and veteran, James Gould, Republican candidate.

Gould won the office with 5,890 votes to 5,700 votes for Metzgar.

Floyd Butz, the Democratic incumbent for register and recorder, rolled to a decisive victory and his second term in that office 6,273 to 5,226.

Republican control of the board of county auditors falls to John W. Wernett, Saylorsburg representative of a brokerage concern and Mrs. Mary Garcia, the Republican incumbent. Wernett polled 5,510 votes and Mrs. Garcia received 5,390. In the Democratic minority post is Mahlon Besecker who received 5,228 vote and out of the running is Monroe Brong, Democrat, with 4,978 votes.

The unopposed candidates for Supreme court of Pennsylvania, according to final official vote, received major voting attention. T. McKeen Chidsey, Republican received 5,599 to 4,935 for Judge Michael A. Musmanno, Democrat. The amendment to consolidate Philadelphia's county-city government passed in this county 2,457 to 1,297, while the amendment to permit Philadelphia to increase its indebtedness failed 1,487 to 1,938.

Hunt Petitions Court For Recount Of Constable Votes

Attorney Joseph J. McCluskey, representing Pearley D. Hunt, Democratic candidate for constable in the Fifth ward, East Stroudsburg, Saturday morning presented a petition to the Monroe county court for a recount of the ballots cast at the recent election in which Travis Seese, Republican, was shown elected by a one-vote margin.

According to the unofficial returns, Seese received 155 votes and Hunt 154.

The petition was signed by Mr. Hunt and six other voters in the ward, five in all being the minimum required.

Fifty dollars cash was deposited as required by law to cover necessary expenses in the event the count goes against the petitioner.

The petition was filed with Judge Fred W. Davis who, if he acts favorably on the same, will appoint a special board of canvassers to open the ballot box and count the ballots cast for the office.

The military vote upset the election for supervisor in Smithfield township, it was revealed when the official count took place before the Monroe county commissioners at the court house on Saturday morning in which Cicero Frederick, Democrat, was declared elected over William Gorman, Republican.

The canvass previous to the count of the military vote showed that Gorman received 237 votes and Frederick 236. However, Frederick received two military votes, thus electing him by a majority of one vote.

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College Girl To Participate In Panel Quiz Of Industrialists

Five college students from Pennsylvania, including Ursula E. Lindberg, senior at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, will attend the 56th Congress of American Industry in New York City, December 5 to 7.

The Pennsylvania college students will appear on "Students Quiz Industrialists", a forum presentation, with a panel consisting of twelve college students and three apprentices with a panel of industrial spokesmen. Dwight Cooke, radio commentator, will act as moderator.

The congress, staged under auspices of the National Association of Manufacturers, annually attracts more than 3,000 of the nation's outstanding business and industrial leaders.

The East Stroudsburg State Teachers College senior was nominated by the Monroe County Manufacturers association, affiliated with National Association of Manufacturers, through the Pennsylvania Manufacturers association.

Through the cooperation of Dr. Joseph F. Noonan, president of the college and other members of the college staff, the local student was selected to participate in the panel quiz.

J. Albert Gronet, president, and Joseph Small, secretary of the Monroe county group, moved to have this county's association represented at the 56th Congress of American Industry.

Other student representatives from this State will be: Joseph F. McKinney, senior at St. Joseph's College, Philadelphia, sponsored by the National association, James J. L. Worth, senior at Penn State College, who attends as guest of PMA.

Seven Men Pull Plane To Ground

Oxnard, Calif., (AP)—Jim Dewy, an inspector for the Civil Aeronautics administration, flew in from Burbank, Calif., in a light monoplane. Gusts at the Oxnard airport ranged from 65 to 74 miles per hour.

Dewy opened the throttle wide and tried to land. But the plane just wouldn't touch the runway.

When Mean Colds Stuff You Up

It's so easy to relieve coughs and stuffiness of colds in a hurry this home-proved way... with 2 spoonfuls of Vicks VapoRub in a vaporizer or in a bowl of boiling water as directed in package. Just breathe in the steam! Every single breath carries VapoRub's soothing medications deep into throat and large bronchial tubes. It medicates irritated membranes, helps restore normal breathing. For coughs or upper bronchial congestion there's nothing like using Vicks VapoRub in steam.

For continued relief always rub it on throat, chest and back.

VICKS VAPORUB

Both John Caywood, airport manager, and Mack Dickerman, an airline agent, said she was slowed to the rate of a fast walk and the wheels would come no lower than from one to five feet of the ground.

Finally Caywood, Dickerman and five other guys hanging around the hanger grabbed the plane at a low ebb and pulled her down on the runway.

THE IRON PONY COMES OF AGE

Shipping by rail was a hazardous business a hundred years ago.

The crude little wood-burning engines with their light wooden box and flatcars huffed and puffed over the steep and bumpy roadbeds, offering little protection to their cargoes. Derailment was usual. Shippers never knew when nor in what condition freight would reach its destination.

But, over the years, times have changed. And shipping via the Lackawanna Railroad has changed with the times.

Today, a great fleet of Diesel-powered locomotives, operating over the Lackawanna mainline between New York and Buffalo, haul mighty trainloads of freight at speeds up to 65 miles an hour. Modern steel-sheathed cars assure safe and dependable transportation for every type of shipment. New mechanized equipment at Lackawanna's strategically located docks and terminals and a mammoth marine fleet facilitate the handling of overland and export freight.

Five years of the biggest modernization program in our history have greatly strengthened Lackawanna's service to the nation's shippers. Now as we enter our second century, we of the Lackawanna Railroad look back with a sense of pride to the accomplishments of the past and pledge ourselves to write an even brighter chapter of transportation progress in the years to come.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Stroudsburg High school saved its biggest offensive outburst for the final game of the 1951 season, as the Mountaineers rolled over Lehigh, 36-18, on Saturday. It marked the last time that Frank Armitage and Alden "Red" Fetherman will lead the Mountaineers into battle and the latter made it one to be remembered, as he scored twice and set up two other touchdowns. Fetherman's dash of 91 yards in the second period of the game was the first of the season, as the entire Stroudsburg club bowed out in a blaze of glory, coming through with a pair of victories in their last two trips to the post.

It was only a few weeks back that it appeared as if the Mountaineers were headed toward one of their poorest gridiron campaigns in history, as the charges of Coach Jerry Stulgaitis found it increasingly hard to land a favorable decision. However, with the winning spirit in the final chapter of the campaign, the Mountaineers were able to complete the season with four wins and six defeats, which certainly isn't a season to feel too downcast about—at least not in this modern day high pressure football.

Rider College continued to dominate its series with East Stroudsburg State Teachers College on Saturday, when the Warriors went down to a 26-7 defeat. A fight that threatened to spread to all the players of both teams and many of the spectators was halted short of its goal, but not before several of the campaigners got in a few healthy kicks and punches. However, as far as a right and wrong are concerned, it would be tough to decide. Those backing ESSTC could easily blame Rider and vice versa. Only those who were in on the beginning of the battle know actually who was at fault, and they certainly won't make their feelings public.

Reports coming out of the Pocono A. C. business meeting last night revealed that the club finished the past campaign with a profit of $66.83, not even enough to pay for a banquet. However, if there aren't any expenses this winter, the club will have enough to pay its entrance fee in the Blue Mountain league next season. Speaking of the Blue Mountain league brings to mind the fact that the Portland Apollos are holding a benefit dance at the Village Barn on Wednesday night. The Apollos hold a dance each month, with all proceeds going to the ball club. The Apollos also campaign in the Blue Mountain league.

Jack Darr, number three man on the Crowe Insurance bowling team on Saturday night, was only recently discharged from the Monroe County General hospital, where he was confined for observation. Jake Nittel was the talk of last Saturday's Delaware Valley league match between Crowe's five and Capuro's Service. Jake, long one of the top bowlers in the Lehigh Valley, came through with his best performance this year with scores of 235, 216 and 224, for a grand total of 675 pins. Showings of this type will keep Nittel right in the middle of the high average race, a position he maintains annually.

Jim Sommers and Roy "Nip" Nevil were on hand to see the New York Giants and Washington Redskins play a National Professional Football league game in New York two weeks ago. It marked the fifteenth straight year that this twosome has been on hand to see the two foes in action. Sommers and Nevil began attending this game the year Sammy Baugh first broke into the Washington lineup and have been going back every year since that time.

Ray Welsh, former basketball coach at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, is scheduled to hold a large cage clinic in Scranton on Saturday, December 1. Stroudsburg High school's court schedule includes 19 games this season, opening with Bangor and closing with East Stroudsburg. Basketball moves into Monroe County to stay a week from this Friday, when Coach E. Kriner's Barrett eagles tangle with Greene-Dreher-Stirling, coached by Henry "Hank" Arneberg. Both Kriner and Arneberg are graduates of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

Football fever is just reaching high tide in the Slate Belt area, as Bangor and Pen Argyl High schools go through their final preparations for Thursday's long awaited battle on Pen Argyl's home field. Past records go out the window and no holds are barred when these two arch enemies of the gridiron lineup against each other.

East Stroudsburg High school's football team is in line for another post-season banquet, this column has been informed. The Cavaliers will be honored at the East Stroudsburg Methodist church tomorrow, at 6 p.m. Bob Gearhart, former Stroudsburg High griddier, was recently taken from Italy to Germany to undergo surgery to repair a broken leg. The Marine was injured in a highway accident.

Fetherman Thrills Crowd With Long Run

Lehighton — Stroudsburg High school's grid machine saved its biggest offensive outburst of the season for the final game and with the display humbled Lehighton, 36-18, in a Lehigh Valley League contest played here on Saturday. It was the final contest of the 1951 campaign for both contingents.

Alden "Red" Fetherman, co-captain of the Mountaineers, bowed out of the scholastic grid ranks with a brilliant demonstration that paced the visiting contingent to victory in the easiest fashion possible.

With Karl Weingartner throwing and Fetherman running the Indians were helpless before the Stroudsburg attack. Weingartner was responsible for the initial touchdown by passing to Al Adelmann, a play that covered 16 yards. However, the score was setup by runs of 12 and 15 yards by Fetherman.

Fetherman personally took care of the second Stroudsburg score in the first period, when he bulled over the double chalk mark from the ten yard marker. A 20-yard pass play from Weingartner to Williams setup the tally. The Mountaineers continued to roll in the second stanza, with two more touchdowns, to take a 24-0 lead at the halfway mark. Dave Shook accounted for the third six-pointer by crashing over from the six, while Fetherman brought one of the smallest crowds to see Stroudsburg play this year to its feet with a 91 yard dash into paydirt, from a fake kick formation. It was the longest run of the season for a Stroudsburg back.

Dick Posten went over from the five in the third period for the Mountaineers, while Weingartner gave up his passing role long enough to race 75 yards for a touchdown in the final period. Lehighton registered its initial TD in the third period when Larry Bisbing went over from two yard marker. Bisbing bucked over from the four for another touchdown in the final quarter, while Gerald Serafas, chief Lehighton threat all afternoon, finished the scoring by racing 61 yards for a touchdown late in the final stanza, while the Stroudsburg junior varsity was on the field.

There were no extra points added after the touchdowns.

Stroudsburg finished the campaign with four victories and six defeats, while Lehighton failed to win a contest.

Pennsylvania's Scholastic Gridders Prepare For Major Thanksgiving Day Encounters

By Ben French

Harrisburg, (AP)—Pennsylvania's scholastic gridders start preparing today for the Thanksgiving Day finales with only 12 all-winning major events remaining.

Bellwood-Antis and DuBois are the latest two teams to be dumped from the all-winning list. Bellwood dropped its first decision in 28 14-7, in the Inter-County league playoff. DuBois' streak was ended by Punksutawney, 28-21, in an Armistice Day scrap.

That leaves the unbeaten and untied class "A" list including: Conemaugh Township (ten), Erie Cathedral Prep (nine), Johnstown Catholic (eight), Kulpmont (ten), Lewistown (nine), Muncie (ten), Pittsburgh Westinghouse (nine), Ridley Township (ten), Swoyersville (nine), Uniontown (ten), West Philadelphia Catholic (eight), and West Scranton (seven).
Muncie, Ridley Township, Swoyersville, West Philadelphia Catholic and West Scranton still have games to be played before they can be certain of perfect seasons.

Beaverdale, the conqueror of Bellwood-Antis, also is unbeaten and untied but plays its games in a class "B" league.

Almost Certain
Swoyersville, now almost certain of playing in the Eastern Conference championship game on December 1, defeated Larksville, 14-6, for the Sailors' "clincher" in the Northern Division of the 54-team conference. The Sailors will probably meet Pottsville, beaten only by non-league Lebanon, in the title game although unbeaten Kulpmont also has a chance.

Pottsville holds a 51-point advantage in the Southern Division and while neither team plays in the conference Thursday, the complicated point system could swing either way.

Muncie will meet Farrell Friday at Ambridge for the class "AA" title of the huge WPIAL. Farrell, beaten only by Warren, Ohio, edged out unbeaten Uniontown when Duquesne downed Monessen, 7-0, last Friday. The Gardner point system awarded the remaining spot to Farrell on the basis of points. A Monessen victory would have given Uniontown enough points to get a shot at the title.

New Brighton won the WPIAL class "A" championship by downing Ramsay High of Mt. Pleasant, 33-0. Wilderminger and Jefferson share the class "B" title after playing to a 20-20 tie.
West Philadelphia Catholic meets West Philadelphia High Thursday for its last regular-season game before meeting the Public League champion for the Quaker City championship.

West Scranton closes its season Thursday against traditional rival Dunmore (6-2) while Ridley Township, 47-6 winner over Ridley Park Friday night, faces Edinboro. Swoyersville still has a Thanksgiving Day battle with Luzerne.

Rose Bowl—Stanford (9-0) vs. Illinois, Purdue or Wisconsin. Illinois can clinch with a win or tie over Northwestern Saturday.

Sugar Bowl—Tennessee (8-0) vs. Maryland (8-0). All set.

Cotton Bowl—All is chaos. Four teams—Texas Christian, Rice, Baylor and Texas—still in running, and nobody will know who or what until December 1.

Orange Bowl—Georgia Tech (7-0-1) already signed. Sponsors want Kentucky or a southwest team for the other role.

Three Biddy Games Slated

Three games are on tap for the Biddy Basketball League at the Monroe County YMCA today. The first tussle, between Colonial Diner and Clemens' Service Station, will start at 4 p. m.

The second contest, at 4:45, will bring together Koren's Roofers and Wyckoff-Sears. The final battle at 5:30 p. m., will feature the Nash Ramblers and Line Material.

Board Members
Von Goldberg formerly coached the Pocono A. C. football team. Jimmy Wertheimer, Dick Schaller and Russell "Lindy" Transue were elected to the board of directors. The next meeting of the board is listed for Sunday, December 2.

Fourth
Lehigh Olga and Lehigh Ina, both the property of Wilbur G. Miller, Summit Hill, placed fourth and won reserve hound honors respectively.

Honors in the 15-inch class went to Allan Hahn, Palmerton, with his entry, Lehigh Chap, proving the class of the division. Lehigh Nell, owned by Dr. Weisel, was second, and Pocono Bill, belonging to William McCarty, of Milford, coming home in third place.
Lehigh Oscar, a third entry for Dr. Weisel's kennel, finished fourth and Springtime Lulu, owned by Victory Sachs, Sellersville, won reserve honors.
Judges for the events were Russell Underkoffler, Locust Gap, and Ray O'Donnell, Reading.
The next outing listed for the Monroe club is the annual Kuntz Memorial Stakes, to be run on Sunday, December 9.

Browns Gain Important Nod Over Giants

By Orlo Robertson

New York (AP)—The Cleveland Browns took a long step toward a chance to defend their National Football League championship yesterday as they shut out their most serious rivals in the American Conference, New York's Giants, 10-0, at the Polo Grounds. The victory gave the Browns their seventh victory in eight games and left the Giants with a record of five wins, two defeats and one tie. Each has four games to play.

The battle for the right to represent the National Conference in the league's December 23 playoff became a three-way contest as the Chicago Bears, Los Angeles Rams and Detroit Lions each won. The Bears and Rams have won six of their eight games while the Lions have a 5-2-1 record.

The Bears trampled over the Green Bay Packers 24-13. The Rams went on a scoring spree for a 48-21 decision over the winless eighth game while the Lions decided the Philadelphia Eagles 28-10.

Drop Chance
San Francisco's 49ers lost a chance to stay in the National Conference race by bowing to the Chicago Cardinals 27-21.

A crowd of 52,215, the largest Polo Grounds' turnout for a football game since 1946, saw the Browns do all of their scoring in the first seven and one-half minutes of the game. Then the Paul Brown team played conservative football while their defensive line bottled up the Giants' vaunted running game and rushed passer Charlie Conerly.

The one Giant shot at a touchdown, late in the final period, was stopped inches from the goal line. The Browns' first points came at 5:41 on Lou Groza's 34-yard field goal less than two minutes later "Dub" Jones took a short screen pass from Otto Graham and galloped 65 yards for the only touchdown of the game.

The Bears needed to come from behind in the last half on two long touchdowns drives to down the Packers.

Trailing 13-16 at the half, the Bears mustered touchdown surges of 89 and 75 yards along the ground for their victory. The 89 yards were covered in 15 plays with George Gulyanics going over from the three. Gulyanics, rookie John Dutton and Julie Rykovich powered the 75-yard drive, with Rykovich plunging over from the two.

Early Scoring
The Packers, led by Tobin Rote, tallied twice in the first 52 seconds of the second quarter. Rote contributed 150 yards running and 88 passing during the game. The two tallies gave the Packers a 13-3 lead as George Blanda had booted a 35-yard field goal in the first quarter.

The Bears' first TD came near the end of the second period on a 50-yard drive after Gene Schroeder stole Rote's pass.

The Lions stayed in the thick of the National Conference fight on Bobby Layne's passing and Bob Hoernschmeyer's ripping ground sorties.

Layne tossed three touchdown passes after being bottled up in the first half. Hoernschmeyer ground out 118 yards in 14 attempts, scored one touchdown and passed for another.

The Eagles did all of their scoring in the first quarter on Bob Walston's 33-yard field goal and a 38-yard aerial from Adrian Burk to Pete Pihos.

Bill Dudley booted three field goals, two of 37 yards and one of 30, within ten minutes to pace the Washington Redskins to a 22-7 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers. The game was played at Pittsburgh in 23-degree temperature.

Bob Goode plunged over for two touchdowns. The Steelers' lone score came on a 68-yard run by Ray Matthews in the second period.

Local Schools To Be Represented

Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg High schools will be represented at the District XI meeting at Tamaqua tonight.

East Stroudsburg will be represented by Ralph O. Burrows, principal; Jack Kist, athletic director; coaches Dick Forster and Del Davis, and Lewis Hastie, faculty athletic manager.

Stroudsburg's group will include Sam Russell, head cage mentor, Joe Kovarik and Carlton Berger.

Friday's Garden Headliner Listed As Number One Bout On Week's Fistic Schedule

New York, (AP)—Bulky Bob Baker, of Pittsburgh, and clouting Clarence Henry, two of the best young heavyweights in the business, clash Friday night at Madison Square Garden in a ten-round bout that may earn the winner a lucrative date with Ezzard Charles.

Baker, undefeated in 26 fights, had his perfect record marred when he was held to a draw by "Kid" Riviera in Cincinnati last week. The 6-2, 215-pounder has scored 17 knockouts.

Henry, riding an 11-fight winning streak, will spot Baker about 30 pounds. Henry, however, has been giving away weight all the time and it hasn't bothered him. A terrific puncher with his left hand, the Los Angeles Negro has flattened 15 rivals in 31 fights. His record is 28-2-1, and he reversed his early defeats by Jimmy Bevins and Frank Buford. Both are 25 years old.

Televised
The 10 p.m. bout will be broadcast and telecast.
On Wednesday night, Bevins will take on Charley "Doc" Williams of Mahwah, N.J., in a ten rounder at the St. Nicholas Arena in New York. This main event also starts at 10 p.m. and will be broadcast and telecast.

A good Philadelphia show tonight is topped by a ten rounder between undefeated Johnny Saxton of New York and welterweight Charley Salas of Phoenix, Ariz. In another ten, heavyweight Dan Bucaroni of Philadelphia meets Eng-

Counterpoint Named Horse Of Year By Racing Publication

New York, (AP)—Counterpoint, C. V. Whitney's brilliant three-year-old colt, yesterday was named 1951 horse-of-the-year by the Daily Racing Form and affiliated publications.

The chestnut son of Count Fleet, winner of the Belmont, Jockey Club Gold Cup and Empire Gold Cup among others, amassed $250,525 in 15 starts.

Counterpoint drew 28 of the 31 votes cast by editors, handicappers, columnists, correspondents and start makers of the Form. The other three went to Calumet Farm's Citation, first horse ever to win $1,000,000. Although Counterpoint missed being a unanimous horse-of-the-year choice, the colt was picked on all ballots as top three-year-old.

The winners in the various categories were:
Horse-of-the-year — Counterpoint.
Two-year-old — Tom Fool.
Three-year-old — Counterpoint.
Handicap horse — Hill Prince.
Handicap mare — Red O'Leary.
Sprinter — Shellas Reward.
Steeplechaser — Oedipus.

In the sub-division Tom Fool was voted best two-year-old colt, Rose Jet, top two-year-old filly, and Kiss Me Kate queen of three-year-old fillies.

Tom Fool's domination of the two-year-old crop was challenged by only one ballot for Oleo. Tom Fool won five of seven and earned $155,910.

Hill Prince, 1950 horse of the year, won handicap honors in a close battle with Citation and Counterpoint.

Lead Losers
Paul Ford and Nick Freed were the big guns in a losing cause, the former finishing with a 559 count and the latter with a 538 score. Ford had a high single game of 203 pins and Freed of 201.

Eastern League Ratifies Baseline

Elmira, N. Y., (AP)—The directors of the class "A" Eastern Baseball League yesterday ratified the recent sale of the Scranton, Pa., franchise by the Boston Red Sox to Lou Baseline of Mt. Vernon.

They also approved the shift of the Wilkes-Barre, Pa., franchise to Reading, Pa. Both actions were taken at the league's annual fall meeting here.

Vice-President
Spencer J. Harris, general manager of the Elmira ball club, was elected vice-president for 1952 succeeding Thomas McCaffrey, owner of the Albany club.

It was decided to open next season's 140-game schedule April 25 and close it on September 7.

Fight Marks Rough Tussle At Pennington

Pennington, N. J. — Rider College once again proved too much for East Stroudsburg State Teachers College on the football field, as the former scored a convincing 26-7 victory in a rough and tumble contest here on the Pennington Prep school field on Saturday.

A fight, involving Dick Northrup, ESSTC, and Bill Gamble and Joe Anthony, both of Rider, high-ed the contest. The excitement arose in the third quarter, when Anthony kicked and punched Northrup, after the ESSTC lineman had been accused of kicking Gamble. The excitement was finally quieted by police and spectators, after a few of the fans joined in the arm swinging.

The Warriors held their own only in the first period, when a Bob Phelps to Ed Bishop pass scored from the eight, after Jack Millard had put Rider ahead with a touchdown from the two yard stripe. Norm Stianche converted for Rider and Bishop for ESSTC.

Rider went on to dominate the remainder of the game, with rough and tumble tactics being the order of the day and a total of 175 yards in penalties being handed out.

A 27-yard aerial from Ray Bielecki to Charley Engle accounted for the Rider score midway in the second stanza.

John Riley plunged four yards for Rider's third period score, while Bill Warke raced 25 yards for the fourth quarter touchdown by the host team. Stianche added his second extra point of the day after the final six-pointer.

ESSTC completed the 1951 season with a mark of four victories and the same number of setbacks, having won over Millersville, Mansfield, Courtland and Ithaca, while taking it on the chin against Shippensburg. West Chester, Bridgeport and Rider.

Greene-Dreher Preps For Opening Battle

Newfoundland — With the opening of the Greene-Dreher-Sterling basketball season less than two weeks in the offing, many of Coach Henry "Hank" Arneberg's questions relative to the fortunes of his charges in the forthcoming basketball scramble remain unanswered.

Not that the likeable Gold and Blue mentor is pessimistic. This year's squad is simply one that could go well and, on the other hand, slip to mediocrity for reasons that might be difficult to pin down.

At any rate, Arneberg, who returns to the local helm after a year of study in his chosen profession, is quite willing to admit that there's many a problem to be solved between now and the curtain-raiser with Barrett here on November 30.

There are three holdovers from last year's aggregation that rang up a 16-5 season and captured the Hawley-Lake Wallenpaupack Chamber of Commerce Invitation tournament crown for the fourth straight time. They are co-captains Jack Davis and Jack Barry and Bobby Adams, who was promoted from the jayvees in the waning weeks of the past season.

Five Members

Rounding out the squad are five members of the undefeated 1950-51 junior varsity combination, Ron Kinney, Bill Lee, Ray Phillips, Franny Curtis and Jance "Jibs" Bartleson, and Scot Brown, who looked promising on the jayvee crew before bowing out with a knee injury early in the season.

Fitting this material into a solid unit is Arneberg's problem. After a month of drilling he's still unable to name his starting five although it's a good bet that Davis, who has developed more rapidly than any player in recent Greene-Dreher-Sterling history, will be at center with Barry and Adams at the forward spots.

It may take a few games to select the top guards with Phillips, Curtis, Bartleson and Brown as the candidates. Bill Lee, a junior, appears to need additional experience and his assignment will probably be to spell Davis in the pivot. Kinney has shown ability as a scorer and will see plenty of action before the season is very old.

There should be no lack of incentive for the current crop of cagers. Their predecessors of the past four years won 65 games while losing eight for an .890 percentage. The maintenance of that fine standard of play should provide a lofty enough goal to bring out the best in them.

Bucknell Completes First Perfect Campaign In Thirty-Three Years By Downing Delaware

Philadelphia, (AP) — Bucknell College, completing its best football season since 1918, won its ninth game — and thirteenth straight — to top the three unbeaten and untied Pennsylvania grid elevens.

The Bisons battered Delaware to a 33-6 defeat Saturday, and in winning established a new Eastern Intercollegiate Football association record for total offense. Bucknell has averaged 470 yards a game rushing and passing to eclipse Army's 1945 mark of 462.

Bloomburg and Susquehanna also ended the current campaign all-victorious. The teachers knocked off Indiana State Teachers 20-0 for their eighth straight win while Susquehanna edged Ursinus 19-14 to compile a 6-0 record.

Three of the Keystone State's "Big Five" schools triumphed — Penn, Pitt and Penn State — but Temple and Villanova both collapsed against underdog opponents.

By the margin of 20-year-old Carl Semple's place-kicking toe, Penn beat the Army for the first time since 1912 in a bitterly-contested 7-6 contest. The Quakers converted a fumble into a score after they trailed 6-0 going into the third period.

Pitt ended a ten-game losing streak at the expense of West Virginia, smashing the Mountaineers in a snowstorm 32-12. The passing of quarterback Bobby Bestwick featured the Pitt attack as he completed 11 of 17 passes. He threw two touchdown passes and his aerials set up three other Pitt scores.

Long Runs

Halfback Bob Pollard ran 75 and 71 yards for two touchdowns to lead Penn State to a 13-7 victory over Rutgers. Pollard, a rangy sophomore, accounted for more than half the Nittany Lions rushing yardage.

Fordham's Rams, a one-touchdown underdog, caught the Temple Owl sound asleep and smothered the Philadelphia eleven 35 to 6. The Rams held the Owls to a minus 33 yards in rushing and turned two interceptions, a recovered fumble and a bad pass from center into touchdowns.

Villanova was the victim of the biggest upset — a 20-13 defeat administered by victory-famished Boston College. And the loss just about killed the Wildcats' chances of a bowl bid. BC had lost six of its first seven games while Villanova had won five of six before meeting the Maroon and Gold.

Lehigh trounced Lafayette 32-0 in the eighty-seventh meeting of the two rivals since 1881. This is the oldest collegiate football rivalry in the nation.

A fumble and an intercepted pass led to two touchdowns, enough for Albright to beat Muhlenberg 13 to 9.

West Chester Teachers blanked Duquesne 13-0. Rider College smothered East Stroudsburg 26-7. Scranton upset Wayneburg 12-0. Dickinson walloped Allegheny 31-13. Lebanon Valley, scoring in every period, won its seventh straight game after two early season losses, defeating Juniata, 34-0. Millersville scored 14 points in the first victory to sew up a 28-13 triumph over Mansfield Teachers.

Bonnies Win Final Battle

Lafayette, Pa. (AP) — End Jerry Hanfin reeled off touchdown runs of 100 and 55 yards yesterday to spark St. Bonaventure to a 28-13 triumph in its traditional football clash with St. Vincent College.

Hanfin's off-tackle romp for 55 yards came in the first period. He returned a kickoff for a touchdown from his own end zone late in the fourth quarter of the season closer for both teams.

Tosses For Two

Ted Marchibroda threw two touchdown passes for St. Bonaventure. His first to John Romagnoli for nine yards in the second period climaxed an 80-yard march. The other to halfback Lee Riley in the third was good for 41 yards.

St. Vincent scored twice on breaks. End Paul Clement dived on Hanfin's fumble in the end zone for the Pennsylvanians' first touchdown in the opening quarter. Then Dick Romito captured a St. Bonnie's pass and raced 31 yards to the enemy nine, Ralph Litzinger driving over from the two five plays later.

Bisons Receive Feelers

Lewisburg, Pa. (AP) — Al Humphreys, Bucknell University athletic director, said last night the university has been approached by the Sun Bowl and "several others." He said no decision will be made until after Thanksgiving.

Congressman Walter Lists Aims Of D.P. Conference He'll Attend In Brussels

By Francis E. Walter

If there is any post-war problem that could now safely be put away and classified as liquidated, it is the displaced persons problem as we first met it back in 1945. When I arrived in Europe after VE day and went into some of Hitler's extermination and concentration camps, which at that time were rapidly being converted into DP camps, I was faced with the appalling figure of 1,500,000 human beings who had no place to go. Their countries were overrun by Soviet Russia and the doors to the Western world—the free world, were shut tight.

It took over two years to make the people of western countries aware of the stake they had in the displaced persons problem. It was both a humanitarian problem and an economic one. The 1,500,000 homeless people were actually on our relief roles. We had to under-take to feed, clothes and house them.

The bold leadership assumed by the Congress produced results. As soon as we agreed to admit into our midst a fair share of the displaced persons, the rest of the world followed suit. Now, two months before the expiration of the International Refugee Organization, there are less than 37,000 displaced persons left of those whom Nazism uprooted from their homes and even they, the sick and aged, the lame and the blind, commonly known as the "hard core," have been safely institutionalized in Germany and in several European countries who generously agreed to let them live out their lives under the care of welfare institutions.

One can hardly find enough words of praise for the government of Norway, for instance, who agreed to provide a permanent home for over 300 blind displaced persons. Or for the government of Switzerland who gave the advantages of its wonderful climate to over 200 tuberculosis cases. Similarly, the government of Western Germany, struggling hard with its own problems of reconstruction and rehabilitation, agreed to place several thousands of displaced persons afflicted with tuberculosis in the high Alps of Bavaria.

Speaking of the more fortunate who have now found homes and a means of livelihood, the one-millionth displaced person resettled by the IRO reached the port of New York on the 12th of this month. The same persons will round out the number of displaced persons resettled in the United States to 280,000. At the same time, over 400,000 displaced persons were resettled by agencies other than the IRO or through individual efforts. Unfortunately, another tyranny, all too similar to Nazism, Soviet Communism, has shown its ugly face in Europe and elsewhere. Again, people are being persecuted for their religious and political beliefs and more and more of them seek asylum this side of the Iron Curtain. The number of those who are able to reach the free world is infinitely smaller than the original number of displaced persons. From 1000 to 1500 refugees enter Germany, Austria, Trieste and Sweden each month.

Rep. Francis E. Walter of the 29th Congressional district of Pennsylvania is now in Europe, heading a Congressional group, which, after an on-the-spot study of population problems in several European countries will attend an international migration conference attended by representatives of 21 nations and scheduled to convene in Brussels, Belgium on or about November 26.

Representative Walter sent The Daily Record the following outline of the aims of his European mission.

However, the fact that their number is smaller does not diminish the magnitude of the problem commonly referred to as "the recent refugees problem." There are deep political implications involved. We are telling the people enslaved by Soviet Russia that our world is a free one. We are encouraging Stalin's slaves to come over to our side and join forces with us. If we permit those few who are courageous enough to brave Stalin's secret police and his frontier guards to come over to our side, if we permit those to rot in rapidly deteriorating camps, we will lose allies that we now have behind the Iron Curtain.

There is also this additional fact: for over fifty years several European countries, particularly Italy and Germany, have suffered from excess population and lack of relatively small areas, lack of food and employment and lack of emigration opportunities provided an excellent breeding ground for dictators like Mussolini and Hitler. All they had to do was to promise their crowded and unhappy countrymen more land for resettlement, through conquest. This is how Mussolini's African and Hitler's European wars were justified by them.

The constant influx of the "recent refugees" into traditionally congested areas aggravates the old German and Italian overpopulation problem.

I am glad to say that this problem, difficult as it looks at first glance, is not insoluble. At least eleven countries of the Western world have found that in order to develop their economy and in order to preserve their security, they need more people. Australia, Canada, Argentina, Brazil, Venezuela, Peru, New Zealand and others are right now on the market, looking for immigrants of all skills and of different races. All that's needed is an internationally concerted effort to bring the emigrant-sending and immigrant-receiving countries together and to equip them with a proper international agency handling the selection and the moving of those for whom there is no food or no job or no security in the country of their present residence.

The Congress has in its wisdom once again provided for United States leadership in that field. By appropriating the initial funds and by stating clearly that the creation of such an international migration organization is a matter of great urgency, we have once more undertaken to lead the free world in providing for a sensible solution. Instead of spending our money for relief purposes, instead of continuing to send dollars and food into overcrowded countries, we are ready now to move the excess population, including the "recent refugees" into empty areas which they are able and willing to develop into prosperous lands, thus increasing the strength and the cohesion of the world of the free — opposing the world of slavery.
